

Dear Mr. Cutler,

My name is Pablo, I am a senior at Arizona State University majoring in Finance and Business Data Analytics. I am honored to have been selected as a recipient of the Cutler Scholarship. Receiving this aid means that I will no longer have to worry about how me or my family will afford my college expenses. We are relieved to know that opportunities like this exist for deserving students and that all my hard work throughout these years is being recognized.

On campus I have found a variety of ways to be involved. Beginning with the Association of Latino Professionals for America, ALPFA. I joined the club my first semester of sophomore year and have been on the executive board for four semesters. I am now on my third semester term as President and could not be more proud of the growth the club has seen, the excitement behind it, and the success our members have encountered. I have also had the opportunity to co-found Scholars of Finance at ASU, a club with a national presence that centers around instilling ethics into its members to ensure that future finance leaders steward the world's capital for the greater good.

At Arizona State, I have had the privilege of receiving a quality education. Throughout my time here, I have really delved deep into what careers in finance could offer by constantly challenging myself to take on opportunities that will present me a chance to learn the most. This includes interning at a variety of companies and gaining experience in a variety of fields such as consulting, private equity, corporate banking, and capital markets. I also always keep in mind the importance of getting involved on campus and getting the most out of every class. In the near future, I intend on graduating in May 2024 from Barrett, The Honors College and embark on my journey to work as a Global Capital Markets Analyst at Morgan Stanley in New York. I hope someday in the near future I obtain my MBA from a well-respected institution, hopefully within the next five years.

I am immensely grateful for your generous scholarship support. Your contribution is paving the way for my education and future aspirations. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Pablo Casanova

Meet Pablo Casanova

Biggest academic accomplishment:
Maintaining 4.0 GPA through the entirety of college thus far.

My favorite ASU experience:
Being constantly involved with my clubs and seeing them grow not just in size but also witnessing how a community is formed of like-minded, driven individuals through hosting events like career fairs and participating in conventions across the country.

Favorite quote:
My father constantly says to me “Un trabajo mal hecho no da satisfacción ni provecho” which translates to a job poorly done does not yield satisfaction or benefit. This reminds me to always try my best in everything I do.
